

Saudi Arabia

Women, Business and the Law 2021 presents an index covering 190 economies and structured around the life cycle of a working woman. In total, 35 questions are scored across the eight indicators. Overall scores are then calculated by taking the average of each indicator, with 100 representing the highest possible score. Data refer to the laws and regulations that are applicable to the main business city (Riyadh). Different rules may apply in other jurisdictions so local legislation should be reviewed. Based on this approach, Saudi Arabia scores 80 out of 100. The overall score for Saudi Arabia is higher than the regional average observed across the Middle East & North Africa (51.5). Within the Middle East & North Africa region, the maximum score observed is 88.8 (Malta).

Saudi Arabia - Scores for Women, Business and the Law 2021

Relative Strengths

When it comes to constraints on freedom of movement, laws affecting women's decisions to work, laws affecting women's pay, constraints on women's starting and running a business, and laws affecting the size of a woman's pension, Saudi Arabia gets a perfect score.

Areas for Improvement

However, when it comes to constraints related to marriage, laws affecting women's work after having children, and gender differences in property and inheritance, Saudi Arabia could consider reforms to improve legal equality for women.

For example, one of the lowest scores for Saudi Arabia is on the indicator related to laws affecting women's work after having children (the WBL2021 Parenthood Indicator). To improve on the Parenthood Indicator, Saudi Arabia may wish to consider making paid leave of at least 14 weeks available to mothers, making the government administer 100% of maternity leave benefits, and making paid parental leave available.

Recent Reforms

Saudi Arabia eliminated all restrictions on women's employment.
