

South Sudan

Women, Business and the Law 2021 presents an index covering 190 economies and structured around the life cycle of a working woman. In total, 35 questions are scored across the eight indicators. Overall scores are then calculated by taking the average of each indicator, with 100 representing the highest possible score. Data refer to the laws and regulations that are applicable to the main business city (Juba). Different rules may apply in other jurisdictions so local legislation should be reviewed. Based on this approach, South Sudan scores 70 out of 100. The overall score for South Sudan is lower than the regional average observed across Sub-Saharan Africa (71). Within the Sub-Saharan Africa region, the maximum score observed is 91.9 (Mauritius).

South Sudan - Scores for Women, Business and the Law 2021

Relative Strengths

When it comes to constraints on freedom of movement, laws affecting women’s decisions to work, and laws affecting women’s pay, South Sudan gets a perfect score.

Areas for Improvement

However, when it comes to constraints related to marriage, laws affecting women's work after having children, constraints on women's starting and running a business, gender differences in property and inheritance, and laws affecting the size of a woman's pension, South Sudan could consider reforms to improve legal equality for women.

For example, one of the lowest scores for South Sudan is on the indicator related to laws affecting the size of a woman’s pension (the WBL2021 Pension Indicator). To improve on the Pension Indicator, South Sudan may wish to consider equalizing the ages at which men and women can retire with full pension benefits, equalizing the ages at which men and women can retire with partial pension benefits, and accounting for periods of absence from work due to childcare in pension benefits.

Recent Reforms

No reforms were observed during the past year.
