

Egypt, Arab Rep.

Women, Business and the Law 2022 (WBL2022) presents an index covering 190 economies and structured around the life cycle of a working woman. In total, 35 questions are scored across eight indicators. Overall scores are then calculated by taking the average of each indicator, with 100 representing the highest possible score. Data refer to the laws and regulations that are applicable to the main business city (Cairo). Different rules may apply in other jurisdictions so local legislation should be reviewed. Based on this approach, The Arab Republic of Egypt scores 50.6 out of 100. The overall score for The Arab Republic of Egypt is lower than the regional average observed across the Middle East and North Africa (53). Within the Middle East and North Africa region, the maximum score observed is 88.8 (Malta).

Relative Strengths

When it comes to constraints on women starting and running a business, and laws affecting the size of a woman's pension, The Arab Republic of Egypt gets a perfect score.

Areas for Improvement

However, when it comes to constraints on freedom of movement, laws affecting women's decisions to work, laws affecting women's pay, constraints related to marriage, laws affecting women's work after having children, and gender differences in property and inheritance, The Arab Republic of Egypt could consider reforms to improve legal equality for women.

For example, one of the lowest scores for The Arab Republic of Egypt is on the indicator measuring laws affecting women's pay (the WBL2022 Pay indicator). To improve on the Pay indicator, The Arab Republic of Egypt may wish to consider mandating equal remuneration for work of equal value, allowing women to work at night in the same way as men, allowing women to work in jobs deemed dangerous in the same way as men, and allowing women to work in an industrial job in the same way as men.

Recent Reforms

During the past year (October 2nd, 2020 – October 1st, 2021), Egypt made access to credit easier for women by prohibiting gender-based discrimination in financial services. Egypt enacted legislation protecting women from domestic violence.
