Over the last several decades, Kenya has made significant political and economic reforms that have contributed to sustained economic growth, social development, and political stability. Gender equality, however, remains a key development challenge. When women are given the same opportunities as men, they enter and remain in the labor force, strengthening economies and enabling development. Gender equality is also associated with better development outcomes, such as lower rates of vulnerable employment and extreme poverty among female workers.

Kenya's current score can be attributed to a number of reforms increasing gender equality that were passed over the last 50 years, with the majority occurring in the last two decades. In 1970, the Law of Domicil Act allowed women to choose where to live in the same way as men. This was the only reform implemented in the areas measured by Women, Business and the Law until 2006. With the adoption of both the Sexual Offences Act and amendments to the Employment Act between 2006 and 2009, Kenya criminalized sexual harassment in employment, mandated equal remuneration for work of equal value, eliminated the ban on women’s employment in certain sectors, and prohibited discrimination based on gender in employment. Since 2009, Kenya has also enacted legislation recognizing non-monetary contributions and protecting women from domestic violence.
Today, Kenya receives a score of 100 on four indicators: Mobility, Workplace, Pay, and Marriage. These scores signify that men and women have equal rights and opportunities in the areas measured. However, the remaining four indicators show room for improvement. Gaps persist in the regulatory framework as measured by the Parenthood, Entrepreneurship, Assets, and Pension indicators. With the exception of Assets, in all of these areas Kenya lags behind other economies in the region and of the same income group. The following sections explore Kenya’s scores for each of the Women, Business and the Law indicators, highlighting both the progress made and remaining opportunities for reform.

MOBILITY 100/100

Of the 48 economies in Sub-Saharan Africa, 25, including Kenya, receive a score of 100 on the Mobility indicator. Mobility affects every step in a working woman’s life cycle. Limitations in this area reduce opportunities for women to build networks with other entrepreneurs and exchange vital information on market opportunities, ultimately preventing them from developing their full potential as successful entrepreneurs. Increasing women’s mobility, including the opportunity to freely commute to and from a workplace outside of the home, can give women access to better employment opportunities. Kenya achieved a score of 100 after the passage of the Law of Domicil Act on June 4, 1970, which stated that “an adult married woman shall not, by reason of being married, be incapable of acquiring an independent domicile of choice.” Previously, case law indicated that a married woman would automatically adopt the domicile of her husband, thus restricting her freedom of movement and her choices.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MOBILITY</td>
<td>WORKPLACE</td>
<td>PAY, WORKPLACE, PARENTHOOD</td>
<td>ASSETS</td>
<td>MARRIAGE</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- CAN A WOMAN CHOOSE WHERE TO LIVE IN THE SAME WAY AS A MAN? ☑️ YES
- CAN A WOMAN TRAVEL OUTSIDE HER HOME IN THE SAME WAY AS A MAN? ☑️ YES
- CAN A WOMAN APPLY FOR A PASSPORT IN THE SAME WAY AS A MAN? ☑️ YES
- CAN A WOMAN TRAVEL OUTSIDE THE COUNTRY IN THE SAME WAY AS A MAN? ☑️ YES
Kenya also receives a score of 100 under the Workplace indicator, which analyzes laws affecting women's decisions to enter and remain in the labor force. In the last 15 years, Kenya has prohibited discrimination in employment and introduced legislation on sexual harassment in employment, including criminal penalties for such conduct. Kenya is among 36 other economies in the region that have introduced sexual harassment legislation since 1971. In 2019, the Employment Act (Amendment) Bill was introduced to parliament, seeking to lower the threshold of the number of employees needed for an employer to develop a sexual harassment policy from 20 to five. The legislation is pending as of June 2021.

PAY 100/100

Just 13 economies in Sub-Saharan Africa (including Kenya), and less than one-third of all economies globally, receive a score of 100 on the Pay indicator. This indicator focuses on laws and regulations affecting occupational segregation and the gender wage gap. Worldwide, Pay has the second lowest performance of all indicators, with an average global score of just 67.5. Should a woman successfully enter and remain in the labor force, it is imperative that she not face job restrictions or receive lower pay than a man holding the same position. Yet 88 economies still restrict the jobs women can hold. Additionally, fewer than half of economies worldwide (90) have mandated equal remuneration for work of equal value.

With an amendment to the Employment Act in 2007, Kenya mandated equal remuneration for work of equal value. It also eliminated the ban on women’s employment in certain sectors. The legislation previously in force had banned women from being employed “between the hours of 6:30 p.m. and 6:30 a.m. in an industrial undertaking,” which included mining, factories, the construction sector, and transport.
Unequal rights in marriage and divorce can have negative effects on women’s intra-household bargaining power and jeopardize their financial security. Measures that can promote gender equality in this sphere include protection from domestic violence as well as the ability to divorce and remarry in the same way as men. Kenya is one of 16 economies in Sub-Saharan Africa to score 100 on the Marriage indicator. This was achieved in 2015 with the passage of Kenya’s first domestic violence legislation, which extends to women protections against physical, sexual, psychological, and economic violence. The law, however, does not provide for criminal penalties for domestic violence except in situations where a protection order is broken. One good practice example for comprehensive reform is Madagascar, whose 2019 law establishes criminal penalties for different forms of gender-based violence in the private and public spheres. The law also stipulates that the state must support survivors through the provision of health care, including psychological health care, and legal aid services. Since 2015, eight economies in the region have passed legislation specifically addressing domestic violence. Equal remarriage procedures support women’s economic security by promoting equal decision-making within marriage and ensuring women’s financial stability during and after a divorce or death of spouse.

| INTRODUCTION OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE LEGISLATION IN SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA, 2014-2019 |
|---|---|
| 2014 | Guinea-Bissau, Comoros |
| 2015 | Kenya |
| 2017 | Chad |
| 2018 | Burkina Faso, Eswatini |
| 2019 | Liberia, Madagascar |
PARENTHOOD 40/100

Kenya receives a score of 40/100 on the Parenthood indicator, which examines laws affecting women’s work after pregnancy. Maternity, paternity, and parental leave schemes can help recognize and redistribute unpaid care work. Kenya is among a minority of countries in the region that do not grant at least 98 days of paid maternity leave, the standard established by the International Labour Organization (ILO). Neighboring countries that have carried out reforms in this area include Ethiopia, which lengthened paid maternity leave from 90 to 120 days and introduced three days of paternity leave in 2019. Liberia and Mauritius also passed reforms in 2015 by extending the length of leave from 90 days and 84 days, respectively, to 98 days. Of the 27 economies in Sub-Saharan Africa that provide at least 14 weeks of maternity leave for women, 12 economies require the government to administer this benefit.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>IS PAID LEAVE OF AT LEAST 14 WEEKS AVAILABLE TO MOTHERS?</th>
<th>NO</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>DOES THE GOVERNMENT ADMINISTER 100% OF MATERNITY LEAVE BENEFITS?</td>
<td>NO</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IS PAID LEAVE AVAILABLE TO FATHERS?</td>
<td>YES</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IS THERE PAID PARENTAL LEAVE?</td>
<td>NO</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IS DISMISSAL OF PREGNANT WORKERS PROHIBITED?</td>
<td>YES</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ENTREPRENEURSHIP 50/100

Laws that prescribe equal access when conducting financial transactions, entrepreneurial activity, or when receiving financial assistance are key to expanding access to finance for women-owned businesses. The Entrepreneurship indicator analyzes constraints on women starting and running businesses. Kenya scores 50 out of 100 points on this indicator. While women in Kenya can sign binding contracts and open bank accounts in the same way as men, crucial barriers to women’s participation in entrepreneurship activities remain. First, the law does not prohibit discrimination in access to credit based on gender. Economies in Sub-Saharan Africa that prohibit discrimination in access to credit based on gender include Angola, Cabo Verde, Democratic Republic of Congo, Guinea, Mauritius, Mozambique, South Africa, Zambia, and Zimbabwe. In South Africa, the Promotion of Equality and Prevention of Unfair Discrimination Act of 2000 bars unfair practices, which it defines to include refusing to provide goods or services and providing unequal access to financial resources to any person on one of the prohibited grounds, including sex. Additionally, the National Credit Act of 2006 (in Art. 61) establishes that a credit provider must not unfairly discriminate directly or indirectly based on gender. In 2015, Zambia enacted the Gender Equity and Equality Act, which determines that both sexes shall have equal access and rights to credit, capital, mortgages, security, and training (Art. 14). The law’s Art. 37 also explicitly prohibits discrimination against women based on their gender and marital status when accessing financial services or resources. Women, Business and the Law has found that laws prohibiting gender-based discrimination by creditors are positively associated with female bank account ownership.

Kenya is also one of just four economies in Sub-Saharan Africa, and six worldwide, that does not allow women to register a business in the same way as men. Article 6(1)(h) of the Registration of Business Names Act requires a married woman who wants to register a business to include the name and surname of her husband, while a married man is not required to provide such information about his wife. These disparities can limit women’s ability to make effective choices and transform these choices into economic outcomes.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>LENGTH OF PAID LEAVE (CALENDAR DAYS)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Maternity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Gambia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ethiopia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seychelles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Congo, Rep.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>São Tomé and Principe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kenya</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nigeria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mozambique</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sudan</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DOES THE LAW PROHIBIT DISCRIMINATION IN ACCESS TO CREDIT BASED ON GENDER?</th>
<th>NO</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CAN A WOMAN SIGN A CONTRACT IN THE SAME WAY AS A MAN?</td>
<td>YES</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CAN A WOMAN REGISTER A BUSINESS IN THE SAME WAY AS A MAN?</td>
<td>NO</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CAN A WOMAN OPEN A BANK ACCOUNT IN THE SAME WAY AS A MAN?</td>
<td>YES</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Assets indicator examines gender differences in property and inheritance law. Strong property rights can allow women to leverage assets for economic gain. Kenya receives a score of 80/100 on this indicator. The country’s most recent reform in this area was the adoption of the Matrimonial Property Act in 2013, which explicitly introduced the concept of non-monetar-y contributions to matrimonial property, such as child care or domestic work, that usually disproportionately fall on women. Kenya fails to achieve a perfect score because it does not grant female and male surviving spouses equal inheritance rights. Article 36 of the Law of Succession Act states that if the surviving spouse is a widow, the “life interest shall be determined upon her re-marriage to any person.” This means that women’s right to inheritance is conditioned upon their decision to remarry, which is a requirement that does not exist for men.

Where wives or daughters lack equal inheritance rights, their economic prospects may be limited. Conversely, giving women greater access to assets through inheritance can change outcomes for children, particularly girls. The majority of economies in Sub-Saharan Africa (71 percent) grant surviving spouses equal inheritance rights.

GOOD PRACTICE: INHERITANCE IN RWANDA

Law Governing Matrimonial Regimes, Donations and Successions (Law No. 27 of 2016), Art. 75

The surviving spouse is entitled to take part in succession of the deceased spouse’s estate. The surviving spouse called to succeed inherits in equal portions with first category heirs. If there are no heirs of the first category, he/she has the same right of succession as heirs in the second category and in the absence of heirs of the second category, he/she co-inherits with those of the third category, and so forth.

The Pension indicator assesses laws affecting women’s economic prospects in retirement. Kenya receives a 75/100 on this indicator. While the ages at which men and women can retire are equal, periods of absence due to childcare are not accounted for in pension benefits. Explicit recognition of maternity leave as a qualifying period of employment allows women’s retirement savings to continue growing while on care leave. Currently, 24 of the 48 economies in Sub-Saharan Africa legally establish pension care credits for periods of childcare. In Côte d’Ivoire, for example, periods of interrupted work during which the employed woman receives maternity allowance are accounted for when calculating the amount of retirement pension, regardless of contributions. Others, such as Benin, Burkina Faso, Cameroon, and Togo, credit time spent on maternity leave as insured periods. Provisions like these can help ensure women’s economic security in old age.
THE WAY FORWARD

Women in Kenya have experienced significant increases in socio-economic opportunities thanks to the reforms pursued over the last several decades. Of the 35 good practices measured by Women, Business and the Law, 20 percent have room for improvement. Prioritizing reforms in the areas of Parenthood, Entrepreneurship, Assets, and Pension is crucial to help women achieve full equality before the law.

In the area of Entrepreneurship, the country could improve women’s situation by prohibiting discrimination in access to credit and equalizing the process and requirements for women to register a business. In the area of Assets, Kenya should consider a reform of inheritance law to grant equal rights to male and female surviving spouses. And in Parenthood, the country has room to align with the international good practice established by the ILO by granting 14 weeks of leave for mothers.

Even in areas where the country has pursued reforms, it can take time before the law is fully implemented. One example is the need for clearer guidance for the judiciary to adjudicate non-monetary contributions and equitable distribution of property. Case law still highlights the inconsistent interpretation and application of laws, which often results in discriminatory distribution of matrimonial property. Another example is the case of the Protection Against Domestic Violence Act of 2015. After the passage of the act, rules of procedure were not enacted. However, civil society groups worked to resolve this situation, which led to rules of procedure being drafted. These rules were subsequently signed by the Chief Justice and Chairman of the Rules Committee on October 6, 2020.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Support for the Women, Business and the Law economy summaries series is provided by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. The Women, Business and the Law team would like to acknowledge Mr. Fredrick J.K Nyagah and Ms. Catherine N Githae from the Men Engage Kenya Network (MenKen) for their invaluable insights and expertise.

Women, Business and the Law presents an index covering 190 economies and structured around the life cycle of a working woman. It employs eight indicators that are structured around women’s interactions with the law as they begin, progress through, and end their careers: Mobility, Workplace, Pay, Marriage, Parenthood, Entrepreneurship, Assets, and Pension. Overall scores are calculated by taking the average of each indicator, with 100 representing the highest possible score.
Analysis: Kenya in the Women, Business and the Law Index

Mobility
- Can a woman choose where to live in the same way as a man?
  - Legal Basis: No restrictions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Can a woman travel outside her home in the same way as a man?
  - Legal Basis: Constitution of Kenya, Art. 12(1)(b); Kenya Citizenship and Immigration Act, Arts. 24(1) and 27
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Can a woman apply for a passport in the same way as a man?
  - Legal Basis: No restrictions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Can a woman travel outside the country in the same way as a man?
  - Legal Basis: No restrictions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

Workplace
- Can a woman get a job in the same way as a man?
  - Legal Basis: No restrictions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Does the law prohibit discrimination in employment based on gender?
  - Legal Basis: Employment Act, Art. 5(3)(a)
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Is there legislation on sexual harassment in employment?
  - Legal Basis: Sexual Offences Act, 2006, Sec. 23
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Are there criminal penalties or civil remedies for sexual harassment in employment?
  - Legal Basis: Employment Act, 2007, Sec. 6 Criminal penalties: Sexual Offences Act, 2006, Sec.23
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

Pay
- Does the law mandate equal remuneration for work of equal value?
  - Legal Basis: Employment Act, 2007, Sec. 6 Criminal penalties: Sexual Offences Act, 2006, Sec.23
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Can women work the same night hours as men?
  - Legal Basis: No restrictions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Can women work in jobs deemed dangerous in the same way as men?
  - Legal Basis: No restrictions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

Marriage
- Is there no legal provision that requires a married woman to obey her husband?
  - Legal Basis: No applicable provisions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Can a woman be head of household in the same way as a man?
  - Legal Basis: Protection Against Domestic Violence Act, 2015
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

Parenthood
- Is paid leave of at least 14 weeks available to mothers?
  - Legal Basis: Employment Act, Sec. 29(t)
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No

- Does the government pay 100% of maternity leave benefits?
  - Legal Basis: Employment Act, Art. 29
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No

- Is there paid paternity leave?
  - Legal Basis: Employment Act, Art. 29(8)
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Is there paid parental leave?
  - Legal Basis: Employment Act, Arts. 45(4) and 46(a)
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No

Entrepreneurship
- Can a woman register a business in the same way as a man?
  - Legal Basis: Registration of Business Names Act, Art. 6(3)(h)
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No

- Can a woman open a bank account in the same way as man?
  - Legal Basis: No restrictions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

Assets
- Do men and women have equal ownership rights to immovable property?
  - Legal Basis: Matrimonial Property Act, Sec. 4(a)
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Do female and male surviving spouses have equal rights to inherit assets?
  - Legal Basis: Law of Succession Act, Art. 36(t)
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No

- Does the law grant spouses equal administrative authority over assets during marriage?
  - Legal Basis: Matrimonial Property Act, Sec. 12
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

Pension
- Are the ages at which men and women can retire with full pension benefits equal?
  - Legal Basis: National Social Security Fund Act, Arts. 2 and 36
  - Kenya (Y/N): Yes
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): Yes

- Are the ages at which men and women can retire with partial pension benefits equal?
  - Legal Basis: No applicable provisions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No

- Are the mandatory retirement ages for men and women equal?
  - Legal Basis: No applicable provisions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No

- Are periods of absence due to child care accounted for in pension benefits?
  - Legal Basis: No applicable provisions could be located
  - Kenya (Y/N): No
  - Regional Trend (Y/N): No